October is Careers in Construction Month

This nationwide campaign is held every October to increase awareness of careers in construction, showcase the positive impact a fulfilling career in construction can have on individuals and communities, and inspire the next generation of craft professionals.

CAWP Members can help by sharing the Future Road Builders Apprenticeship Readiness Course! Designed to offer a basic understanding of the various construction trades, once completed, the user's information will be made available to 200+ highway construction employers in the region, as well as with the apprenticeship programs in western PA.

UPJ Students Visit Plum Contracting Project to Learn About Highway Construction

On September 26, 2024, 18 students from the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown visited PennDOT's PA 403, Section 015 project, just south of Johnstown.

Garth Bridenbaugh and Jim Kaseler from PennDOT gave presentations on the overall project design, including the specifics of the soldier pile and lagging wall due to the years of road settlement.

During the tour, Tom Goldinger and Val Casciato from Plum Contracting shared how the project is being constructed and discussed career opportunities in the industry. Students were asked to share their interests and prior internship experiences.

During lunch, Jason Koss highlighted the benefits of participating in the CAWP Student Estimating Competition.

Field trips to area projects are a valuable way to expose students to the career opportunities available in the highway construction industry.
